

HOW TO SAY NO

If I knew how to say no I'd be a whole lot better off
But I tend to nod and do what makes em happy short term
If I grew up a little I might pull up both my socks
If I threw up a little I might purge the ticks and the tocks
How I wish I knew how to say I know what's excess and what's simple fun
But if I knew how to say no, honey by now I'd be long gone

If I knew how to say no, my heart would not grow weak
If I knew the boat to row I would not be down shit creek
If the wind changed tomorrow I'd be stuck with a permanent grin
If women of constant sorrow would leave me alone with my gin
When I well know something's rotten, i sing C'est Si Bon
If I knew how to say no, honey by now I'd be long gone

If I knew how to say no, I'd be lying thru my teeth
I come and then I go I loiter on the blasted heath
The sisters show no mercy, the entire family's weird
They cast a spell upon me I say yes I am endeared
Maybe is the coward's word, and probably is wrong
For if I knew how to say no, honey by now I'd be long gone

If I knew how to say no, I might know what i might think
If I knew how to say no nay never to your drink
If I knew how to make it new from the past
If you take it for read, i'm blue, can't be arsed
Affirmation got wings, negation wears a ton
If I

If I knew how to say no I might be a better man
If I knew stop from go, I might make a better plan
If you were me and I were you and all the world were green
If I were me i'd not believe the eyes that I have seen
A letter is not a poem and a poem is not a song
If I knew how to sing no, honey by now, I'd be singing so long
