

Waited All My Life

words & music by:
John Dandrea

Splashing on the beach hearing the waves roll up onto the shore, never anything more to want or care for,
now that you're here, taking my hand. . . .

Laying in the sun,
feeling the sand as it warms us inside, nothing I would hide it's you I'm beside,
now that you're here, taking my hand. . . .

and you come and whisper to me,
"I love you, truly
I never will forget your smile -
and you are my rainbow's end..." I've waited all my life, for you - waited all my life..... for you.

sunset on the beach, warmed by the glow of love in your eyes you're such a surprise I realize
now that you're here, taking my hand. . . .

and you come and whisper to me,
"I love you, truly
I never will forget your smile -
and you are my rainbow's end..."
I've waited all my life, for you -
waited all my life..... for you.

(c) 1977
John Dandrea