

A Little Bit Of Me

This was a joyful, bouncy song reflecting the happiness I felt when I had my first child - a son. There is nothing that can compare to the joy of being a parent, when you have a heart full of love and just waiting to shower it onto this new and curious life - this "Little Bit Of Me".

I have a very special love of children and only in my later years did I really learn much about abuse and violence that so many children even in our country, suffer. I do consider that each child is a tremendous gift from God, an incredible blessing, and they are our future. I know that the quality of that future depends on the quality of love we can show to them.

This song was especially fun to arrange, as I love the sort of light, accoustic congo-drum rhythms and strings that give this song its special "feel" of joy. I hope you enjoy listening to it as much as I do.

~ John