Oct 30, 2010 – Hollywood, The superstar power of Native American award winning artist Victoria Blackie has put a 4th single record in the roots charts of country music in 2010. Victoria is the most sought after Native American artist in country music today having swept the ISMU awards and getting nominated for 8 big NAMMY awards in New York this year. The media, radio and television love her soft spoken confidence and powerful Martina McBride type vocals.

Only Clint Black's album of 5 hit singles off his debut album by the same title has come even close to the number of hits from a debut CD by a new artist. Victoria has the elite management skills of Martha Chavez who has coached Victoria to so many awards in country music.

The AIRA has nominated Victoria the AIRA Female Vocalist of the Year for her international airplay that has rung up big hit records in Europe, Canada, Australia, New Zealand and the Pacific Rim. The Academy Of International Recording Artists recognizes new artists who have scored big in the international charts on the Pacers Radio Network.

The album is pure country music with one of the most unique contemporary sounds found at radio stations across the worldwide audience of Victoria Blackie. Huntleigh Price wrote an incredible piece on Victoria in which he proclaims her a sure star among country music's great power vocalists in today's tough county environment.
