San Francisco, CA – Queer Control Records (QCR) is pleased to announce the release of its 2011 compilation, License To Download. This is QCR's second compilation and features 12 tracks from a variety of LGBTIQQ artists.

This special album can be downloaded free of charge from the QCR website, beginning on Monday, July 5, 2011. It will be available for the duration of one year. For more information, visit www.queercontrol.com/qcrcomp2011.

“We are so excited to be releasing our second compilation. The first one was so successful that we decided to make it an annual part of what we do. There are so many great queer musicians out there that have trouble expanding beyond their local following. Being part of project like this helps to spread the word. Plus, everyone loves free music!” explained QCR Co-founder and President/CEO Marlene Melendez.

All featured artists enjoy their own webpage hosted on the QCR website, which includes general information, links, pictures, and information on how to purchase albums and other merchandise. Each person who downloads the compilation is prompted to learn more about the featured artists. Meanwhile, artists have the valuable to opportunity to showcase themselves and reach new fans.

See enclosed track list.

About Queer Control Records: The mission of Queer Control Records (QCR) is to provide charitable assistance to lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, intersex, queer, and questioning (LGBTIQQ) musicians. Emerging from DIY, Alternative, Grunge Rock, Riot Grrrl, and Queercore music scenes, QCR was founded 2007 to benefit the music and musicians of the greater queer community. With volunteers and supporters from all over the world, QCR headquarters currently resides in San Francisco, CA.
