

Blues Revue

Aug./ Sept. 2007 Issue

Hailing from Austin by way of Boston, porterdavis -- a trio comprising Daniel Barrett, Mike Meadows, and Simon Wallace -- are tailor-made for the jam-band circuit. Barrett's slide guitar and Wallace's harmonica are relatively traditional, but covers of Muddy Waters and Robert Johnson are filtered through a non-blues sensibility, more Dave Matthews Band than Led-Zeppelin (let alone Blind Boy Fuller). The soul tune "Since You've Been Gone" is played as straight R&B, and it's the most enjoyable song on the self-released "Live at Eddie's Attic."
