Dear Mr. Whitfield:

I wanted to add to my prior letter dated February 11, 2008. I neglected to mention anything about the school, "With These Hands Mix Academy" and how much it will benefit those who take the program. Mr. Wilson will teach those who have the opportunity to take the classes more than just music. I understand that those who participate will be taught more than just basics and will be required to take courses dealing with the history of all types of music. Students will have an understanding of precise information leading to a career in the field of music. They will understand responsibility, leadership, communication and everything that mixes in today's society.

Mr. Wilson, as stated earlier in my former letter, has the ability to engage the students in the important things relating to the position of DJ. As an observer, I could see the earnest look of interest on each student's face. They were intent on wanting more information and what they could do next to prepare for their futures. They were truly excited and related very well to Mr. Wilson and seemed to be "thirsty" for more information. We actually had to ask the students to move on so they could explore the other careers and what the other presenters had to offer.

Again, should you need further comment or information, please feel free to contact me at (828)238-0607 or email me at Sandra.hopkins@cms.k12.nc.us.

Sincerely,

Sandra W. Hopkins, Ed.D.
