Attendees and Contributors,

On October 31st, 2007 you helped us host the 4th annual "THE Geek Festival" was hosted at CPCC's Levine campus. We love this initiative because it provides an opportunity to highlight innovation and learning in a fun, exciting, and positive way with our community partners and supporters such as you. It was a great success! We wish to take a moment to send this message as an expression of thanks. Thank you for contributing, attending, and supporting this event.

We extend special thanks to our collaborators, volunteers, and sponsors; Body Worlds, Apple Computer, Healthy Dairy, Sonic Foundry, Learning Objects, Cochran Enterprises, CPCC Student Life, CPCC eLearning, the CPCC Futures Institute, the CPCC Foundation, and so many others who played roles in making it all come together.

TGF2007 event photos, videos, and more will be posted to the site @ <http://www.thegeekfest.com> soon. If you have media that should be included in the gallery, please email to adam.brooks@cpcc.edu. Several of the key presentations were webcasted. Archives of these will remain available online and on-demand for a few more weeks through Sonic Foundry's Mediasite @ <http://www1.cpcc.edu/thegeekfest/2007/webcasts>.

So, what did you think? In preparation for the next TGF event in 2008, your feedback is of great importance. Please share with us your observations, thoughts, and ideas. What went well and what didn't? What would you like to see next year? How would you like to contribute in the future? We welcome your responses via email or a phone call.

We hope to see you all again in 2008!
